MIDDLEBURY—VERMONT SAT.

NEW BLACK PANTHER ORCHESTRA TO PLAY AT SOPHOMORE HOP

Ticket Sale for Autumn Formal Begins Tomorrow.

ENTERTAINMENTS, NOVELTIES, FEATURE

Attractive Programs to Be Printed on Parchment.

Music for the soph hop, which is to be held in the Middlebury Inn on Thanksgiving Eve, will be furnished by the new Black Panther orchestra. The sale of tickets for the affair will begin tomorrow under the direction of Chester Clemens and Miriam Barber.

The decision to engage the local band was made by Kingsley Smith, chairman of the dance, because of the apparent dissatisfaction on the part of the student body with imported orchestras in recent years. The Black Panthers have changed their personnel considerably in the past and in all appearances made thus far, have shown that they merit the contract for such an importance dance. The band will consist of eight pieces, and several men will be imported from various parts of the state to join in making the orchestra one of the best that has ever represented Middlebury.

Milton Wooding and Seymour Hand, who have charge of securing the tickets, announce that they will be ready for distribution tomorrow. A complete canvass of the college will be made under the supervision of Chester Clemens. He wishes to urge those who have intentions of attending the only open formal during the first semester to purchase their tickets early. Both the individual and the dance committee will profit by such a procedure.

In accordance with his earlier announcement, Mr. Smith has made plans whereby the coming soph hop will introduce new novelties to Middlebury.

ILL HEALTH FORCES DEAN TO TAKE REST

B. A. Hazeltine in Bermuda Recovering from Blood Poisoning; Dr. Barney Now Handling His Work.

Burt A. Hazeltine, dean of men, sailed last week for Bermuda where he will spend a month recuperating from the after effects of a troublesome case of blood poisoning.

During his absence the ordinary work of his office will be handled by Miss MacDonald, while Dr. R. L. Barney will attend to all matters outside the regular routine, according to recent announcement from the president's office.

During the latter part of the summer the dean received an infection in his hand, which developed into blood poisoning. He appeared to be on the road to recovery at the beginning of the college year, and was able to handle the administrative work of his office. However the poison in his system

Green and Gold Team To Invade Porter Field To Give Battle To Coach Ben Beck's Blue Eleven

BLACK PANTHER AGGREGATION WILL FIND CATAMOUNTS A MUCH BETTER TEAM THAN SCORES INDICATE; GAME WITH NORWICH SHOWED VERMONT TO BE VERY STRONG

Comparative Scores Favor Middlebury Eleven Somewhat, But Previous Success or Failure Means Very Little in State Series Contests Where Upsets Are Frequent.

The annual grid classic of the state will take place at Porter field Saturday when the Middlebury eleven meets the aggregation wearing the Green and Gold of the University of Vermont. This contest will be the final game of the year for the Panther team, but Vermont will still have the annual game with Springfield college to look forward to. In both cases however, this fracas is the game of the year.

Middlebury will celebrate "Homecoming Day" and returning alumni will be on hand to cheer the team on in its fight to retain the championship of the state. Vermont will bring down a large delegation led by the R. O. T. C. band and the battle of music between the bands of the two colleges will be well worth hearing.

No matter what the success of the two teams has been at any previous time during the season, no matter whether one team on paper looms up as much superior, the annual Middlebury Vermont game is a battle from start to finish. Each team is out to win and is keyed up to the highest possible fighting pitch.

Neither team has had a successful year. Vermont can point to but one win and a tie out of seven games while Middlebury has but one win out of the same number of contests. Middlebury's victory however, was over a major opponent, an 18 to 0 win over Norwich while Vermont can only boast of a 0 to 0 tie with the same team and a 13 to 0 win over the Coast Guard academy.

Comparative scores of past games mean but little in a state contest, but it is a bit interesting to look them over. Middlebury and Vermont have played two common foes thus far this season. The Panther battered Norwich into submission by an 18 to 0 score while Vermont could do nothing better than tie the Cadets 0 to 0. On the other hand, the Rensselaer engineers defeated Vermont 7 to 0 and won from Middlebury 6 to 0. The comparative scores with Norwich would indicate that the Panther team is 18 points better than Vermont while the Rensselaer results show only a one point difference.

Vermont has improved greatly since the trouncing they took at New Hampshire state. Saturday's game with Norwich showed the Cats far superior to the Cadets. The 0 to 0 score does not begin to tell the true story of the game. The ball was in Norwich territory almost all of the time. Vermont made 13 first downs against three for Norwich.

The Cadets made some great defensive stands when Vermont threatened and aided by breaks managed to stave off all scoring rushes. Vermont hammered at the Norwich line all afternoon and at times a score looked inevitable, but breaks were with the Cadets and poor judgment by the Vermont quarterback cost the Cats the game.

On one occasion, Norwich was saved by a piece of luck. Heaton slipped on the eight yard line with a clear field in front of him and before he could regain his feet, Norwich tacklers nailed him. Other advances to within the Norwich 15 yard line were numerous, but aided by a few penalties, a fumble and some poor quarterbacking, the Cadets managed to keep their goal line uncrossed.

It appeared at times almost as though the Vermont team was playing under wraps. Not once, did the Cats open up with a passing attack. A number of passes were tried, but these were of the old fashioned variety. No tricky plays were pulled with the exception of a reverse lateral. Straight football was the rule of the day and Vermont showed that she has some good plunging backs.

Vermont has a far more powerful team than people give them credit for. The line is heavy and strong. The forward wall will outweigh the Middlebury line by quite a bit. The backfield is strong and fairly fast. No one in the Vermont backfield can match speed on end runs with Hoyle, but all are rugged and good line plungers.

Captain Segal played his first full game of the season Saturday and showed up to his old form. This flashy end has been out with a bad shoulder and collar bone and his return strengthens the Cats' weak position. Park played the other wing position against Norwich and did a fairly good job. Coach Dunn can call on Bedell, Durfey, Rugg and Allerton to fill in at end in

MANY SOPHOMORES REPORT FOR WORK ON KALEIDOSCOPE

Start Work Under System Formulated by Pi Delta Epsilon.

SIXTY-EIGHT PICK OUT DESIRED WORK

Editor and Manager Explain Work of Different Departments.

Sixty-eight sophomores responded to the announcement for Kaleidoscope tryouts at Warner Hemicycle Thursday afternoon. Yearbook production in general and the work of the various departments of the Kaleidoscope were explained by Kirkland Sloper and John Storm at that time.

The tryouts signified the type of work which they desire to undertake, and they have already begun their duties. Assignments are being given to them by the heads of the various departments in order that they may become acquainted with the side of yearbook production that they have chosen.

Because of the great number of tryouts, especially from the women's college, forty-five in number, the amount of work which will be assigned each individual will of consequence be small, thus exactness and accuracy will be the most important factors. It was also made clear at the meeting that tryouts will be expected to attend the regular Sunday meetings of the board, but will have neither voice nor vote in the proceedings.

The circulation campaign which has been conducted among the faculty for the past week is producing very satisfactory results. Members of the faculty appreciate the fact that the 1932 Kaleidoscope will be one which will appeal to all who have connections with the college.

At the regular meeting of the board held Sunday in Warner Hemicycle reports were made of the work in the

FRESHMEN ELECT JOCELYN PRESIDENT

Committee Appointed to Consider Advisibility of Awarding Silver Footballs to Frosh Team.

Douglas Jocelyn was elected president of the class of 1934 at a meeting held Wednesday, November 5. Remaining officers were elected at another meeting the following Saturday.

Other officers are Jeanette Stone, vice president; John Fallon, treasurer; Elizabeth Brown, secretary. After some discussion about awarding silver footballs to members of the frosh football team, a committee was appointed by Mr. Jocelyn. This committee of three, consisting of Dorothy Wilson, Samuel Blacher, and Raymond K. Miner, will submit a report at the next meeting, and a final vote will be taken. At this time the frosh frolic committee will also be appointed.

Mr. Jocelyn is a member of the freshman grid team. He is a Chi Psi pledge.

ALUMNI HOMECOMING.

This coming week-end a large and enthusiastic crowd of alumni will return to college for the Vermont game. Special arrangements have been made to secure them reservations for good seats, while in more ways than most of us understand, the administration has done its utmost to make the homecoming a success from every angle. The football squad has worked hard for months to make possible a brilliant victory over our time honored rivals. Now it remains for the student body to do its part.

Alumni do not often have an opportunity collectively to visit the campus that was once their home and about which many intimate memories cluster and linger. As far as it lies within its power, the Director's office does its best to encourage and arrange fitting occasions where alumni can be accomodated and entertained. But this week it is not so much the game that will leave the final impression, nor, possibly, the arduous effort of those making it practicable. Rather, the hospitable reception as given by students themselves, or lack ot it, will remain as the lasting remembrance.

To make this coming week-end a complete success, it may be pointed out that the undergraduate body can do much for the alumni. In fraternity houses, particularly, one can be courteous, attentive, and conversational. Hospitality and good will openly expressed, however, lie within the reach of everyone. It should be remembered that alumni, for the nonce, will try to share in undergraduate character and sentiment they felt keenly years ago. Put simply, then, it is up to us to make them feel at home.

Surely, for two short days, it is reasonable to request complete cooperation from students to go a little out of their way in bringing this week-end to a most happy conclusion.

APPEAL FOR RELIEF.

The warming response of the student body to an appeal for aid in relieving distress in outlying districts about Middlebury is significant. It demonstrates that a body of men and women are completely in sympathy with people afflicted with unfortunate conditions caused by the present widespread economic depression. Perhaps it also shows an undertsanding of the shamefully unjust position in which decent and industrious families are forced to live.

Economists have prattled about causes, and officials, in viewing the situation with alarm (or invincible optimism) have stated that it represents an inevitable consequence of overproduction, to the neglect of a rational criticism of the real cause—an archiac system of distribution. It has remained for honest people to do something about it.

It is highly significant that students are not given so much to mouthing platitudes as they are to acting with sincerity of purpose in meeting a bad situation with the resources within their capacity.

We hope that students will not neglect to keep up the good work. Winter in Vermont is sometimes dreadfully cold, and it usually happens that an unusually hard winter follows a period of extensive distress. A goodly supply of clothing is already assembled, but there may be a later request for further assistance. Let us put aside old clothes, since this is the most we can do, and thus be prepared for the appeal, if it comes. Remember that while we are warm, well fed, and well clothed, there may be families within a short distance that are desperately in need.

Galley Grist

"Success" by Lion Feutchwanger, New York, The Viking Press, $3.00.

Despite the fact that this book was the literary guild choice for November, it is well-worth reading. Being a tale of modern Munich, the central character of which is Martin Kruger, an unfortunate little man who reenacts the Sacco-Vanzetti fiasco, you have an idea of what you may expect.

Kruger, an unoffensive man is sent to prison by the hide-bound politicians and the stupid buorgeosie to suffer as unfair a penalty as was exacted in the bay state a few years back. That is the central theme of the book.

There are also the numerous petty wars among the local politicians, the German fraus and fraulines, the unpronouncible words and names and the atmosphere of a feudal city suddenly gone modern. For it seems to us that automobiles, telephones, and other outward signs of modernism are as out of place in the novel as a Dodge water sled would be in Lohengrin. Aside from that, we have no complaint to enter.

Before you look for the book (you can get it from the Egbert Starr library) we feel it is only fair to teel you that it is seven hundred and eighty-one pages in length. However, if you are still interested, and have plenty of time, by all means read the book. It's worth more than a dozen so-so novels.

Rene Fulop-Miller, who has edited "The Ocrana: The Russian Secret Police" (Lippencott) from the diaries of the last chief-of-police under the Czar, has been a liberal from early age. When he was only fourteen he was editor of one of the most widely read liberal newspapers in Transylvania. And when arrested for a fiery editorial ,the sergeant-at-arms hastily bustled him out of the courtroom on the grounds that no children were allowed.

Sinclair Lewis, who won the Nobel Prize for literature last week, has left his Vermont farm and is now in New York city. It is rumored that he has leased F'. P. A.'s home in Westport, Conn., where he intends to spend at least part of the winter. We wonder if the fact that Westport is also the home of Lewis' friend and critic, VanWyck Brooks, had anything to do with the choice.

Henry Holt & Company will publish the collected poems of Robert Frost this week Wednesday. All the poems from "North of Boston", "A Boy's Will", "New Hampshire", and "West Running Brook" together with six new poems which have never before been published will be included. The price is $5.00. Persons desiring firsts would do well to write the publishers at once.

Shreds and Patches

It has often been said that a man is known by the pets he keeps. If that is so, we hesitate to classify the freshman in Hepburn who is the proud possessor of a bowl of goldfish.

We have just reread the reviews Brooks Atkinson and Percy Hammond gave Maxwell Anderson's new play "Elizabeth the Queen" which opened at the Guild theatre Novemebr 3. As Messers. Hammond and Atkinson are both exceedingly hard boiled as critics go, we feel that it is fairly safe to hazzard that "Elizabeth the Queen" will appear in Burns Mantel's theatre yearbook next spring as one of the best plays of the year. Lynn Fontanne as Elizabeth and Alfred Lunt as Essex play the leads.

The program on Porter field last Friday afternoon in which the Norwich pups (no offense meant) figured as victims, inspired one freshman genius to compose a heroic poem which began:

"Mud in their mouths, and mud in their eyes,
Ain't they mad, oh my, oh my!"

Guess Edna Millay and Eddie Guest had better look to their laurels. On second thought, perhaps here's a chance for the Sax to uncover a new genius.

A certain member of the women's college accused this of being a rehashment of the popular column "Calvin Coolidge Says". No, my friend, you are wrong. We don't get paid seven cents a word for our platitudes.

Wonder if the New York Central railroad will buy the DO-X and stick it up in the Grand Central along with the Bremen and the De Witt Clinton locomotive. We've always been disappointed that they never considered one of the Cortland Street ferry boats worthy of exhibition. It would certainly be an impressive addition to their collection.

We've heard of freshmen who filled out the section of the registration card which called for names of parents with "Mamma and Papa"; but we were bolloxed when we discovered that a certain sophomore had taken the similar space on the press club filing cards which asks for parents or guardian literally, and had merely written down "parents".

We wonder if the college had anything to do with the installation of the bell on the local Catholic church. It certainly is effective in waking sleeping students in the soc. lecture room or Warner Hemicycle when it rings at noon. Sleepers claim that it's rather hard on the nerves, but one gets accustomed to it after a few weeks.

Some persons certainly are fresh air fiends. Last Thursday morning we got up to chapel after braving an icy walk and a cutting North wind only to discover that the steam wasn't doing its duty and that three or four windows were open.

If some unknown freshman doesn't stop trying to massacre Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" at 11:30 p. m. in the Hepburn Social hall we're going to wield a double bladed axe. We haven't decided whether the player or the piano will be the victim though. Any suggestions?

Contrary to popular opinion ,the lady from Springfield who tryed to commit suicide in the taxi the other day has not been identifid as Gimee Semple MacPherson.

The elusive portrait whose vicissitudes in the wilds of Hepburn have been many and unusual, is to be placed in a deposit vault at the local bank tomorrow for safe-keeping, provided the owner of the picture does not get hi-jacked on the way to the sanc. Figure it out for yourself.

We suppose it's to much to ask that Mr. Murry cut out the advertisements at the local cathedral of the cinema. If he must run them, we suggest that he do so only at 4:35 each morning and charge an admission price of $5.50.

COMMUNICATION

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CAMPUS:

The recent generous action of our alumni in providing four awards of $250 each to be given to the outstanding man in each class has met, I think, with the proper amount of enthusiasm and appreciation which such a show of interest on the part of those who have the interest of the college at heart deserves. That the alumni of Middlebury have a sincere desire to stimulate the qualities of leadership, scholarship, and ability which are the prerequisities of attaining these awards is plain, and these scholarships will in time become traditional, and as such will be among the highest honors the college can give.

Among the comments which the announcement of the alumni awards provoked, there seemed to be fairly strong undercurrent of sentiment which I should like to crystallize into the following suggestion: namely, that the basis for the awards remaining the same, they should be given to the four outstanding men of the college, and not be awarded to one man in each class.

It need hardly be pointed out that the standards for judging a freshman (or a sophomore, for that matter) are very meager as compared with the standards for judging men who have four semesters or more of accomplishment behind them. Aside from placing a freshman given such a scholarship at a disadvantage did he not live up to his mark of distinction during his subsequent college career, there might also be the danger, were the awards given on a four class basis, of passing by some very deserving and able men. Those who have made these scholarships possible of course want to see the results of their generosity distributed in the fairest possible manner. So, too, do those among whom are going to be found the recipients of the most concretely praiseworthy gesture our alumni could make.

VARSITY DEBATERS RECENTLY CHOSEN

Thomas J. Duffield '33 and Edward Yerovitz '33 to Represent Middlebury Against Scottish Team.

Thomas J. Duffield '33 and Edward Yerovitz '33, were selected last Friday as the two men who will represent Middlebury in the international debate with the Scottish universities 'union on December 2 in the Mead Memorial chapel. Both men were members of last years varsity team.

Last year Mr. Duffield took part in the debate with Upsala college, New York university, and the Women's college. In the latter contest he was voted second best man speaking by an audience ballot. He recevied second award in the Parker prize speaking contest. He is a member of Tau Kappa Alpha. In addition of his forensic activities, Mr. Duffield is a member of the Glee club. He is affiliated with Delta Kappa Epsilon.

Mr. Yerovitz was prominent in debating throughout last year. He was a member of the team which engaged New Hampshire university, Albany Law school, New York university, Rutgers university, and the University of Vermont. The majority of these contests were Middlebury victories. He was awarded second place in the Edward Winthrop Lawrence debating prizes. Mr. Yerovitz is a member of Tau Kappa Alpha.

Other men who took part in the tryout debates which were held last week were Giles Chase '32, Reamer Kline '32, Anthony G. L. Brackett '33, Frederick Brink '33, Aaron Shefkind '33, and Abraham Manell '34.

The Scottish universities' debating team is composed of John M. MacCormick of Glasgow university and Norman A. Wilson of St. Andrews university. The former's career as a student is a remarkable one. Beginning life as a socialist, he early became secretary of the University labor party and well known throughout the country on Labor platforms. His experiences in politics soon made him dissatisfied with the position of his own country, and he became convinced that only through a revival of nationalism and by the establishment of self-government could Scotland regain a proud place among the nations of the world.

Against the advice of his friends, who foresaw for him a brilliant political career, he cut himself adrift from the labor party. Believing in the power of his ideal, he founded and was first president of the Glasgow university nationalist association. Through his personal influence the association rapidly became powerful in the university life and nominated Mr. R. B. Cunningham Graham, a veteran Scot, at the last rectorial election. To the surprise of every one the nationalist candidature was a great success, and Cunningham Graham came within 66 votes of defeating Stanley Baldwin, then prime minister of Great Britain. It was his leadership is this campaign which earned for MacCormick the affectionate title of King John, by which he is today known throughout the length and breadth of Scotland.

Taking a leading part in the foundation of the national party of Scotland, MacCormick was its first chairman and is today national secretary of that rapidly growing organization. He was first nationalist parliamentary candidate to be adopted in Scotland. While still an undergraduate he contested a Glasgow constituency. He is now a qualified solicitor and intends to set up in business on his return from the American debating tour.

Mr. Wilson has been a conspicuous advocate of the opinion that every student ought to take a part in the public life of his university. Perhaps owing to the fact that he was only a very ordinary performer in his college athletics (he played regularly for one of the second teams), his rise to public life was slow. However, in 1928 his class elected his to represent them on the students' representative council; and he proved such a success that in the succeeding year he was returned with a poll only second to that of the retiring president. He has been largely instrumental in the introduction of a higher standard both in oratory and in business efficiency; and but for the fact that he is absent on tour would undoubtedly have been the president of the council for this year.

He has been elected for two years in succession to the managements committee of the men students' union, and has taken a prominent part in the debates held by this union. When the debating tour is over, Mr. Wilson will take up the presidency of the university literary society, the premier student society of St. Andrew's.

Interfraternity Conference Opposes Sales Methods

The executive council of the Interfraternity Conference at its June meeting, adopted resolutions to protest against the promoting activities of fraternity jewelry salesmen, according to a letter recently received by the dean.

It was stated that jewelry firms, having contracts with the conference members, have authorized their salesmen to attempt to sell individuals of the chapters, insignia of organizations opposed to the ideals of the American college fraternity. These organizations are said to exist solely because of the action of the salesmen.

The conference expressed its emphatic disapproval of such activities. It further declared that no official jeweler of any fraternity may with propriety manufacture insignia of these unrecognized groups nor tolerate their sale by its own employees.

Fraternity Bowling League Organized

A fraternity bowling league will open the latter part of next week at Buddy's bowling alley on Main street. The league is being formed at the request of several fraternities, and cups have been procured for both the winning team and the high singles score.

Under present plans each fraternity and the neutral body will be represented by a three man team and one alternate. These teams must be registered at the bowling alley before Saturday night. A manager should be appointed to assist in making arrangements for the schedule. This schedule will appear in an early issue of the CAMPUS.

Candle pins will be used exclusively throughout the season. Plans now call for a split season schedule, each fraternity meeting every opponent twice in each half of the season. The winners of each section will play a championship match at the end of the year for the cup which is now on display at Buddy's gas station. The championship team will be eligible to play the winners of other leagues for the county championship.

Of course this fraternity bowling league is in no way connected with the general intra-mural program of sports which is carried out under the direction of the college athletic department.

Debussy is Subject of A Tempo Club Discussion

The A Tempo club held the second meeting of the year, Tuesday evening, November 4, in the music studio.

Winifred Webster '32, and Virginia Cole '31, discussed the impressionistic works of the French composer, Claude Debussy. Cleone Ford '32, and Elizabeth Abell '31, illustrated the main points of the lecture with piano and violin solos.

Meetings of the club are held bimonthly, and are devoted to the study of various types of music which are of special interest. The next meeting will be held in the Mead Memorial chapel. At this time, the committee in charge will present a program of organ music.

Student Body is Asked to Relieve Unemployment

The cooperation of the student body is solicited by a local benevolence association in an attempt to relieve the distress caused by the present unemployment situation.

The students are asked to collect all clothing which might be of use to the families in Middlebury and in surrounding towns who are unable to provide for the coming winter.

The Waubanakees and the MCA cabinet will canvass both sides of the hill during the next few days. It it hoped that the college will help materially in this work.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB HOLDS REHEARSALS

Results of Last Cut in Club are Announced; Thirty-Three Men Retained.

The men's glee club held rehearsals Friday afternoon and Friday evening, November 7, under the direction of Professor Larsen.

Two rehearsals will be held each Tuesday and Friday ,one in the afternoon and one in the evening. Professor Owen will be director on Tuesdays and Professor Larsen on Fridays. Further tryouts will be held in the near future.

The results of the last cut in the club are as follows:

First tenors: Fear '31, Locke '31, G. Taylor '32, Hearne '33, Harris '34, Kerr '34, Russel '34; second tenors: Affleck '31, Sanzo '31, Sniffen '31, Lilly '32, Duffield '33, Glazier '33, House '33, G. Montgomery '33; first basses: T. Miner '32, Ide '33, Wells '33, A. White '33, Robart '34, Sears '34, Sprague '34, Snow '34, Stebbins '34; second basses: Cole '31, Dirks '31, Hinman '31, M. Montgomery '31, Doty '32, Herrmann '32, Falby '32, Brackett '33, Carpenter '33.

Richard Fear '31, manager, states that the directors feel that the results of the first rehearsals were very encouraging, and the tone quality of the club promises to be even better than that of last year.

Rev. Weld Addresses Meeting of German Club

Der Deutsche Verein held its first formal meeting of the year last Wednesday evening, November 5, in the chemistry lecture room. Arnold Melbye '32, president, presided over the short business meeting which preceded the entertainment. He extended a welcome to those present ,expressing the hope that they would encourage a larger attendance in the future.

The club had as its guest for the evening, Rev. Weld of the local Episcopal church, who presented a very interesting account of the Passion play at Oberammergau. He illustrated his talk with lantern slides, showing pictures of the town, the characters, and finally scenes from the Passion play itself.

LITERATI BALL COMMITTEE CHOSEN

Richard H. Amercan '31, chairman of the literati ball, has announced the members of the committee to consist of Evelyn Benjamin '32, Marion Simmons '31, and Kenneth Parker '31.

The third annual literati ball is to be held January 18 at the Middlebury Inn. All students who have served on any college publication while in college are eligible to attend. The dance will be the first formal of the new year and the tax will be $3 as in the past.

The committee is at work in arranging a unique program that will be in keeping with the nature of the ball and two specialty dances are being arranged. Music will be furnished by the Black Panther Serenaders under the management of Kenneth Simpson '31.

In the past two years the affair has been a great success and the committee is confident that with new ideas being used, the dance will again be one of the leading events of the college social season.

PROFESSOR CADY IS TO GIVE LECTURES

The following schedule of lectures and readings, to be given in the Abernethy wing of the Egbert Starr library, has been announced.

Tuesday afternoon, November 11, Professor Cady gave his lecture on "Shakespeare's Old Men", this being the second lecture in a series of three.

Doctor Wright will give his reading Friday afternoon, November 14. This is the second reading in a series of seven, to be given during the winter. The subject is to be announced at a later date.

"Shylock", the final lecture in the series by Professor Cady will be given Tuesday afternoon, November 18.

Sigma Phi Epsilon Informal.

Vermont Beta of Sigma Phi Epsilon held its third informal of the year Saturday evening at the house. Twenty couples attended and danced to music of victrola and radio.

Prof. and Mrs. Harry M. Fife and Prof. and Mrs. Paul Rusby were the chaperons.

Beta Kappa Informal.

The first house party of the year was held in the new Beta Kappa house one Saturday evening, November 8. Dance music was furnished by radio and victrola. Fifteen couples attended the dance, which began at 7:30 and ended at 11 o'clock. Punch, ice cream, and cake were served.

The dance was in the nature of a house-warming and was attended by several alumni. Ralph Lilly, '26, and Paul Butler, '29, were among those present. Bradford Newcomb, '27, and Mrs. C. F. Abbott chaperoned the party.

Delta Upsilon Pledge Dance.

An informal dance was held by Delta Upsilon last Saturday night in honor of the pledges to the fraternity. About thirty couples danced to music furnished by a local orchestra. Professor and Mrs. Cady and Professor and Mrs. Swett were chaperones.

CLEMENT AWARD OPEN TO STUDENTS

Prize of Five Hundred Dollars Offered for Best Thesis on the Constitution of the United States.

The Percival Wood Clement prize of $500 will be awarded to the undergraduate in a New England College who writes the best thesis in support of the constitution of the United States of America, as established March 4, 1789, and the first ten amendments thereto

This prize, established by the will of the late Governor Percival Wood Clement of Rutland, Vt., is open to undergraduate men and women students of the junior and senior classes of the following New England colleges in currlcula leading to the first adacemic degree: Amherst, Bates, Borwn, Bowdoin, Wesleyan, Tufts, Colby, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Dartmouth, Middlebury, Harvard, Williams, Boston university, Norwich university, and the University of Maine.

The rules of the contest follow:

1. For the years 1928-1929, 1929-1930, and 1930-1931, in accordance with the provisions of the will, the prize is to be awarded by a board of judges consisting of the presidents of Amherst college, Bates college, and Brown university, or, if a majority of the board should fail to agree, by the president of Columbia university.

2. Essays should be of not over three thousand words in length, and competitors are advised to select some portion of the entire field to which they may do adequate justice within this limit.

3. Each essay must be neatly typewritten upon one side of 8½x11 sheets and the sheets should not be folded. The outside page should contain only the title, the date, and an assumed name, and each essay must be accompanied by a sealed envelope containing on its outside the title and assumed name and within the real name, college and home address of the writer, together with a statement from the registrar of his college that he is duly registered in the junior or senior class of its undergraduate curricula leading to a bachelor's degree.

4. All essays for consideration in 1930-1931 must be sumbitted to the chairman of the committee not later than April 1, 1931.

5. The prize for the year 1930-1931 will be $500, payment to be made by the State Trust comany of Rutland, Vt., trustee of the fund. This company will report to each of the colleges above mentioned th ename and college of the successful competitor.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NOTES

Last Year's U. V. M. Annual Just Out.

Giving the lie to all rumors to the effect that it has been abandoned, combined with the 1932 Ariel, or something of the sort, the 1931 Ariel is to make its appearance on the campus this week. In fact, by the time of the appearance of this issue of the "Cynic", it will be either on sale or ready for distribution within twenty-four hours. The editor can only request that the student body make use of its sense of justice and place the blame for the tardiness of the yearbook where it will. He feels certain that his friends and enemies, as well as those who are indifferent, will readily understand that no one individual is due for censure. To these individuals and groups who fail to find their pictures in the book, he cannot in justice apologize. If there are errors or misstatements to be found, the editor begs indulgence, considering that more than a considerable share of the information had to be garnered from rather unusual sources during his so-called summer vacation.

Believing that the "bigger and better yearbook" idea has been immensely overdone in the past, the editor has striven to gain an effect of simplicity and informality rather than the usual one of elaborateness and ornateness. Some of the more unnecessary of the features have been omitted.

In closing, he requests that those who have so often in the past weeks expressed their anxiety as to the progress of the Ariel shall keep up their laudable interest, giving it its only logical form of expression—support of the sales campaign.—Communication from the editor, in Vermont "Cynic".

Carola Goya, Spanish Dancer Who is to Appear Here November 20, is Considered by Critics to be Outstanding Exponent of Her Art

Not only to the fact that she is graceful, nor that her costumes are gorgeous, nor that she is beautiful, does Carola Goya, the Spanish dancer who is to appear here November 20, owe her power to hold audiences. But it is from her magnetic personality that she derives her charm.

In her dances Miss Goya exemplifies the classical spirit of Spain. Except for those which she has created to the music of modern Spanish composers, each number is a folk dance which has been danced in Spain for generations. Filled with beauty, color, and rhythm, her dances typify the spirit which is, unfortunately, dying out even in Spain. None have been "jazzed" to meet popular demand, but all have the clear vivacity and life found only in dances of the Iberian peninsula.

Miss Goya is young, beautiful, and graceful. She is tall and slender, and her body is exquisitely formed. But it is her face that shows her personality. Soemtimes it expresses wistful serenity, fierce abandon, or impressive dignity. Sometimes passion, sweetness, enchantment, coquetry, and a fleeting cruelty pass over her countenance. Her provocative smile adds much to her ability to win audiences.

Her costumes, which she changes often during a program, are unique. Although they are beautifully designed, and are made of colorful silks, they gain much through her wearing of them. But laways one is conscious that it is not the costume or mucic or dance that means her ability, but it is Carola Goya herself.

Last year, Miss Goya gave eighteen recitals in New York alone. In London the previous season she appeared at the Coliseum and Alhambra theatres and was chosen to dance at a charity function under patronage of Her Royal Highness, the Duchess of York, in the Grand Hall of the ancient Middle Temple, being the only dancer to perform in this hall since the days of Queen Elizabeth.

As each Spanish province and city has dances entirely its own, those on Miss Goya's program are peculiarly characteristic of the sections to which they are native—the wild jota of Aragon, the whirling and playful Asuturiana of Austria, the stately Fandanguielo of Malaga, the courtly Espania Mia of Castile, and various fiery and langorous dances of Andalucia, such as the Bulerias-Del Rocia, the Algerias-Solea, the Tango Trianera, the Tango Giralda, the Farruca Divina, Del Sacro Monte, De La Vega Granadina and Andalucia Gitana.

Miss Goya has received favorable reviews the world over. Some of the comments on her and her work are as follows:

"Senorita Goya with her galaxy of bright costumes and her vivid dramatization of moods was a tonic for the eyes. Hers is a delightful art combining poetic movement, ravishing coquetry and the exhiliarating throb of life in youth. To see her is to gain a new realization of the beauty of the Spanish dance."—New York American.

"It was a stimulating entertainment and there was no sag in tempo or temperament to the final curtain. . . . . Faultless rhythm, swift pace, lithe bodies curving in natural line with the music, and above all, the ceaseless and marvelously adept clicking of castanets. . . . . Changes were effected with negligible delay and a procession of Jotas, Fandangos, Tangos, Garrotins and Bulerias passed easily and speedily across the stage in a riot of color. Miss Goya is young, exceedingly pretty, much in earnest and complete mistress of herself on the stage. In her work may be studied the dances of Andalusia as they really are, unembellished and not tricked out for the foreign trade."—New York Herald-Tribune.

"Carola Goya brings back to dancing the wind blown gaiety which in our day of hurricane and tornado stepping it has tended to lose. What is infinitely delightful about this young Spaniard is that she appears to take such joy in her own performance. She catches and holds the springtime mood of surging vitality. It helps no end that she wears on her lithe and lovely person the most enchanting costumes that a bold and yet discreet imagination ever conceived."—New York Journal of Commerce.

"Senorita Goya's charm lies in her romantic personality, dramatic grasp of a composition and intelligent feeling for rhythm. She has a splendid body and a lively temperament which were best in evidence in a dance called 'Cordoba' performed with poetic feeling. She looked like an enchantress in some jasmin scented garden in Spain—a dangerous figure in the moonlight. I also greatly enjoyed her 'Fado' —the dance of a Portuguese fisher girl —and 'Mi' Negrita,' a Cuban number, which she performed with such taste and fire she was asked to repeat them." —Muiscal America.

"Senorita Goya showed herself possessed of an exceeding and well-disciplined talent, following in her dancing the highest Spanish ideals, both in form and tradition. She has a rhythmic and pulsating temperament but never for an instant oversteps the limits of beauty. Passion, sweetness, enchantment, coquetry and a fleeting cruelty passed in rapid success. There were both deep emotion and something like the light tumult of playful youth in her interpretations which, for an artist so young, produced an impression of extraordinary perfection. Her costumes were appropriate for each dance and she accompanied herself with castanets in the manner of a true daughter of the land bathed by the Guadalquiver."—La Presna (Spanish Daily of New York).

RENSSELAER WINS OVER MIDDLEBURY 6 TO 0 AT TROY

Both Teams Hampered by Extremely Muddy Field Which Made Ball Handling a Hazard.

Middlebury and Rensselaer battled on a muddy field at Troy Saturday and after an uninteresting football game, the engineers emerged victorious by a 6 to 0 score. A long run by Bliss, R. P. I. halfback, and a pass from Diehl to this same Bliss in the second period, accounted for the only score of the contest.

The entire game was played for the most part in the middle of the gridiron and only on rare occasions did either team find its way nearer its opponent's goal line than the 35 yard stripe. Middlebury had only one real scoring opportunity and penalties spoiled that. Rensselaer had two excellent chances to tally and made good on one of them.

'86 field was in a very muddy state of affairs and did all it could to hamper both elevens. Sloppy footing made it hard for the offense to fuction properly and the teams could not gain yardage with any consistency at any time during the contest. The engineers made more first downs than the Panther eleven could garner, but with the exception of the one score in the second period ,the R. P. I. eleven was never very dangerous.

Rensselaer started the scoring offense by receiving a punt on their own 49 yard line. Captain Goldwyn opened the drive with a six yard slash through tackle. Bliss then tore through a huge hole in the line, reversed his field and romped to the 11 yard line before being tackled. Middlebury's defense stiffened and three line smashes netted but three yards. On the last down, Diehl dropped back and tossed a nice pass to Bliss who caught the ball behind the goal line for the game's only score. The Blue line blocked the place kick for the extra point and the score

The senior-junior hockey game was extremely one-sided. The juniors who have won every game they have played, completely controlled the match and at no time did the seniors appear particularly threatening.

The juniors displayed their customary swift attack; thier passing was fast, accurate, and well-placed. Their backs played well up to the forwards, and contributed to the outstanding success.

PANTHER FROSH END SEASON BY SOUNDLY TROUNCING NORWICH PLEBES ON PORTER FIELD BY SCORE OF 25-6

Coach Hessler's Middlebury frosh football team ended their season by soundly trouncing the Norwich plebes on Porter field Friday to the tune of 25 to 6. Greatly out-weighed, the Pony boys never had a chance except for one brief lapse during the third quarter when, led by Giles, dimunitive Maroon quarter-back, they marched the length of the field to a lonesome touchdown.

The Panther scores came in the first, second, and last quarters. Middlebury scored soon after the opening kick-off when Ferrari recovered a Norwich fumble on the thirty-two yard line. Successive runs by each member of the Blue and White backfield brought the ball to the four yard line from where Hickcox scored on a pass from Williams. The Panthers' second score came during the second quarter after a series of heart-breaking line plunges that started at the center of the field. Riccio gleaned this score on a dash through left guard from the three yard line. After Norwich had made the heavier Cub team look foolish at the beginning of the second half, Middlebury received the kick off after the Kaydets' touchdown, and Anderson ran it back from his own ten yard line to the Norwich forty yard line. The third Panther touchdown resulted shortly after, with Williams doing most of the running, and finally taking the pigskin over on a five yard dash through right tackle. The Cubs got the last touchdown just before the game ended, Williams, again making the score on a plunge off right tackle.

The Middlebury team looked better than they have at any time this season. The Norwich Plebes tried hard, but they lacked both the weight and the spirit of the Blue and White. The Panther backs were able to gain at will, and the only surprising thing about the gome was that Middlebury did not score more often.

The suposedly weak Cub line was without the services of Captain Simmons who is in Porter Hospital recovering from injuries. Coach Hessler used quite a few substitutes most of whom performed quite as satisfactory as the regulars. The backfield worked well together, and no one man was spectacular. Reed and Hickcox, Middlebury ends, kept up their consistent good work, and Farrari turned in a lot of good tackles not to mention recovering a fumble or two.

Norwich received the Middlebury kick-off and Giles ran it back to his thirty yard line. After Burbank had made three yards through center, Wayne fumbled and Ferrari recovered for Middlebury on the thirty-two yard line. Successive runs by Fallon, Anderson and Riccio brought the ball to the Maroon four yard line from where Williams tossed a pass to Hickcox who was unguarded in the end zone. Fallon kicked the extra point from placement. Score, Middlebury 7, Norwich 0.

Middlebury kicked off and Burbank was plastered by three Blue and White tacklers on the thirty yard line. Ferrari stopped two attempts at the center of the line, and on the third down, Norwich kicked. The kick was blocked, but Norwich recovered. They kicked again, this time the ball reaching the center of the field. Fallon gained five yards off left tackle, but the Middlebury backs were unable to make it a first down. Williams kicked out of bounds on the thirty-two yard line, and Norwich returned the kick after three unsuccessful attempts at the line. Anderson made three yards through right guard, and Fallon dashed through left tackle for twenty yards and a first down. Wright and Riccio each added six yards, and Middlebury was off to another touchdown, Riccio finally scoring on a three yard dash through left guard. The try for point after touchdown failed. Score, Middlebury 13, Norwich 0.

Norwich again received, but were soon forced to kick. Middlebury started another march toward the Maroon goal line that ended on the twenty-four yard line when the half was called.

Middlebury received the kick off on the twenty yard line. Ferdon went through the line for five yards, and after Williams and Anderson had failed to gain, the former kicked out of bounds at the center of the field. A short kicking duel followed with neither Williams or Giles able to get much distance. Norwich finally got the pigskin on their own forty-five yard line, and after a successful pass that earned five yards, Giles went around right end for twenty-two yards. Giles added three yards through the line, and another pass netted five yards. Giles went through the center of the line for five yards, and finally took the ball over on a reverse play from the seven yard line. The try for point failed. Score, Middlebury 13, Norwich 6.

Norwich kicked off, and Anderson ran the ball back from his own ten yard line to the Maroon forty yard marker. After Fallon had lost three yards on a fumble, Williams tossed him a short pass that netted ten yards. Anderson was unable to gain, and Williams went through right tackle for fifteen yards. Two line plunges brought the ball to the five yard line, and Williams went over for the touchdown on a dash through right tackle. The point after touchdown failed. Score, Middlebury 19, Norwich 6.

Norwich received the Middlebury kick-off on their thirty yard line, and after Giles had made three yards through left tackle, he was forced to kick. Williams went through right tackle for ten yards for a first down, and after two line plunges had netted only three yards he tried a pass that was intercepted by Burbank and run out of bounds on the forty-six yard line. Norwich was unable to gain, and kicked out of bounds on the Blue and White forty-five yard line. Fallon went around right end for twenty yards, and Williams added eleven more around the opposite end. Stefaniak went through left tackle for seventeen yards, and Fallon brought it to the one yard line on a line plunge. Williams scored the last touchdown on a plunge through right tackle. The point was missed, and the game ended shortly after Middlebury had kicked off. Score, Middlebury 25, Norwich 6.

Sports On and Off the Campus

Norwich's defense against the Vermont attack inside the 15 yard line was airtight. DelVecchio, a former backfield man, played a wonderful game at tackle for the Cadets. The Vermont line was much bigger and heavier than the Maroon forward wall, but Norwich rose to defensive heights when the goal line was in danger.

Columbia took a beating Saturday at the hands of Colgate's high scoring eleven. Lou Little will be plenty glad when this season is over. With his "recruiting" system on the go, Little should have a much better team next year.

Springfield is still winning. The Red and White team buried Mass. Aggies under an avalanche of touchdowns Saturday and won 57 to 0. Second and third string men played most of the game for the gymnasts.

Norte Dame's 60 to 20 win over Pennsylvania stamps Knute Rockne's Comets as the outstanding team in the country. Brill, a transfer from Penn. where he wasn't good enough to make the team, was the star in the Rambler's 54 point offense put on by the regulars during the first half. That was just one of the ironic touches that so many times occurs in sporting events.

The CAMPUS will print "all-state" selections next week. Watch for them.

Middlebury vs. Vermont Saturday at Porter Field. This is THE GAME. Everybody should plan to be present to cheer on Captain Perry and his men.

W.S.Y.

GREEN AND GOLD TO PLAY HERE SATURDAY

case of injuries to his regulars. All of these men are fairly capable. Bedell and Durfey are veterans from last year's team.

Vermont's weakness on off tackle plays which has been broadcast all season long did not materialize against Norwich. The Cadets gained little or nothing on these plays. Coach Dunn has some good material for his tackle positions and the play of these men has improved greatly. Donaldson and Aronson started at tackle against Norwich and played good football. Tobin, Bigelow and Cohen can fill in if wanted and each is rugged.

George Collins and Farmer were the starting guards against the Cadets. These two boys are heavy and the Norwich team could not gain an inch through their positions. Blakely and Tilley are capable reserves for the guard positions. Tilley is a veteran from last season.

Dinnmian has been drilled all season long at center and has become a very good snapper back although he originally played guard. Coach Dunn has Eddy, a 225 pounder, as a substitute for Dinniman if the regular center gets hurt.

In the backfield, the Cats have plenty of strength. Winant, Heaton, Collins and Manning were the starting quartet against Norwich. Jay saw service later in the game. Winant is the quarterback and the key man in the Vermont attack. Eddie can run the ends well, plunge with the best of them and is the starting point of the passes. Last year, Winant did the punting, but Heaton has taken over that department this season. If Heaton is hurt, however, Winant can still do his duty as kicker.

Heaton and Tom Collins are a pair of good halfbacks. Heaton and Winant form the lateral passing pair although Collins was in on a few of the lateral plays. Collins was the main cog in the line plunging game against Norwich and turned in some good gains through the Cadet's forward wall. Heavy and rugged, Collins can take plenty of punishment and battering in the straight football line.

Manning backed up the line in fine style against the Cadets and it was largely through his work that the Norwichites found gaining through the line practically impossible. The Vermont fullback is a fine line plunger and was usually given the ball when a yard or so had to be made for first down.

Coach Dunn has plenty of capable reserve strength for the backfield. Orey Jay is extremely fast and can skirt ends in great shape. Dorey, a Middlebury lad, is another good back. In case of necessity, the Green and Gold mentor can send in Coburn, Wadsworth, Bove, Thorne or Fienberg.

This lineup of material gives the Vermonters a strong team for the game Saturday. The Cats will be at full strength and will give plenty of trouble. There were no injuries in the Norwich game so the Green and Gold squad should be in perfect condition for the contest.

Against this formidable array of football material Coach Ben H. Beck will send his regular line-up which thumped Norwich so soundly. Thrasher and Sorensen will play the ends, Captain Perry and Huntington will care for the tackle berths, Duffany and Brown will hold down the guard stations and Nelson will start at center. The backfield will compose of Markowski at quarterback, Hardy or Hoyle and Bakeman at the halves and Hartrey at full. Reserves will be on hand to jump in

PANTHER HARRIERS DEFEATED BY R. P. I.

Crowley Leads Rensselaer Runners to 23-32 Victory Over Middlebury Team.

Running under conditions to which they were not assuctomed, the Middlebury cross country team lost to Rensselaer Polytechnic institute by the score of 23-32 last Saturday.

The race was run over a course a little more than six and one-half miles long and was almost entirely over concrete highways and city streets. Crowley of R. P. I. won the race in the time of 38 minutes and 8 seconds, approximately two minutes more than the record which was established last week.

Middlebury placed only three men among the first ten, Harwood '32 taking second, Perrin '31 third, and Pratt ninth. The other Middlebury men were Ingersoll, Kimball, Cox, and Glasier, who finished in the order named in eleventh twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth positions. The race started and finished in front of the Middlebury stands and was run during the football game.

The summary:

Twenty-Four Page Program Planned for U. V. M. Game

Blue Key and Pi Delta Epsilon have again combined to publish a program for the Vermont-Middlebury games this Saturday at Porter field.

The program will be twenty-four pages long and will contain summaries of the seasons of each team. Comparative scores and the records of past years will be the feature of another section. Numerous pictures will be placed throughout, making it a pictorial review of players and games as well as literary summary of seasons.

The middle two pages will contain the starting line-ups and comparative statistics of the two squads. The songs and cheers of both colleges will also be printed in the back sections.

Juniors Defeat Frosh in Hockey Competition

The juniors increased their lead over the other class hockey teams by defeating the freshmen 6-1 Friday, November 7. This is the most decisive victory gained by any team this season and further proves the strength of the juniors.

The first few minutes of the game were the most closely contested. Neither team was able to score. The juniors however soon made a goal and followed it up with another. The freshmen succeeded in scoring once just before the half ended.

The second half saw a completely out-classed freshman team trying to meet the attack of their opponents. Time and time again the junior forward line broke through the freshman backfield with little difficulty to make a score. The freshmen never threatened to score again.

Juniors 2, Sophomores 1.

The juniors clinched the hockey championship by trouncing the sophomores (ex-champions) Tuesday.

The sophomores were unable to break through to tie; the score and the game concluded with the sophomores warding off a heavy junior attack.

Goals: juniors: Merriam 1, A. Omwake 1; sophomores: Spenser 1.

Freshmen 2, Seniors 1.

The freshmen hockey team clinched third place in the race for hockey honors by defeating the seniors 2-1, in an uneventful game Monday.

The game was unusually free of fouls. Though the attack of neither team displayed any particularly fine passwork or outstandingly good teamwork, the defense of both teams deserve mention for the almost brilliant stops, uncanny tackles, and backing of the forward line.

Goals: seniors: Morrison; freshmen: Smith, Fernalld.

well as the starvation mortality. He stated that the total cost of the World war was 10 times the amount of gold and silver ever extracted from the earth, the total combined wealth of the United States, Great Britain and Italy. "The World war was one to end war, yet it was far from accomplished, for revolutions have developed in Russia, Germany and Austria, and militarism continues. The aim of the war was to set up world's democracy, yet Russia, Italy, Austria and Germany still have dictates. The chief quality which we need is faith—faith in the force of the qualities of justice, faith in the nations of the world. Our policy should be, 'With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us finish the work we are in.'"

SECOND ONE-ACTS TO BE GIVEN SOON

Three Long Plays Will Be Presented by Dramatic Department During Year.

"Joint Owners in Spain" and "A Game of Chess", two one-act plays, will be presented by the dramatic department November 27 and 28.

The first play was written by Olive Brown and the second by Kenneth Sawyer Goodman. They are to be presented as the second program of one-act plays, of which six will be given during the year.

Three long plays will also be presented by the college dramatic department. Last year, difficulty was encountered in presenting the Commencement play as most of the students left before the play was given and actors were scarce. If this problem arises this year the final play will be omitted and another program of one-acts will be presented earlier.

December 17 and 18 the first long play of the season, "Cradle Song" will be given, which will serve as a Christmas program.

MIDDLEBURY TO MEET U. V. M. HARRIERS SAT.

Panthers to Close Season Against Vermont Runners in Dual Meet at Middlebury.

Middlebury closes its cross country season next week with its dual meet against Vermont. This season, the Panther harriers have won two and lost two meets, not counting the forfeit from Norwich. They wil run U. V. M. at Middlebury next week as the final meet for both teams. The race will be run over a three mile course.

The U. V. M. team this year has run only one dual meet. This was against Amherst, which they lost 23-32. The race was run over the Amherst course of four and three quarters miles and was won by an Amherst man in 26 minutes. However, Wilder, of Vermont was close behind him for a second. Norwich forfeited their meet with Vermont and so this one meet is all the information Middlebury has about their opponents for the state title.

Tri-Delta Informal.

The Delta Delta Delta sorority sponsored a pledge dance in the Tri-Delt and Pi Phi rooms, Saturday evening, November 8. Twenty-one couples danced to the music furnished by a three piece orchestra. The chaperons were Miss Prudence Fish, Mrs. Pamela Powell, Mr. Storrs Lee and Professor Lansing Hammond.

K. D. R. Informal.

The Kappa Delta Rho fraternity held its annual Rodeo at the K. D. R. house, Saturday night, November 8. About twenty-two couples, attired in ingenious costumes, were present. The music was furnished by the new college orchestra, the Middleburians. Mr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Wiley ,and Professor and Mrs. Russell Sholes chaperoned.

VERMONT-MIDDLEBURY FOOTBALL GAMES STARTED IN 1894; U. V. M. HAS WON ELEVEN

Back in the old days when men were men and coeds were scarce, it seems that Middlebury and Vermont used to have some hectic contests on the gridiron. The rival players would cover their upper lip with adhesive tape to keep their moustaches from blowing in their eyes, and go at each other with hammer and tongs. The team with the most substitutes won.

Athletic relations on the football field between the two teams began in 1894, when three games were scheduled to be played. The first game was October 20, at Athletic Park, Burlington and resulted in a 14 to 0 victory for U. V. M. The next game was played at Middlebury, and the Blue and White was victorious, 19 to 0. To break the tie, the third game was scheduled to be played at Vergennes which, in those days, was only a small town.

According to all accounts, the game was a corker. The Vermont team had a decided advantage in weight, and pushed over a touchdown just as the first half ended. At the beginning of the second half Vermont was penalized twenty-five yards and they refused to play. After some wrangling the game continued until one of the "Burlington boys" began to slug a Middlebury player named Wells. Something resembling a free-for-all ensued, and the game had to be called off. It was probably just as well for Vermont, for, it is said, the Middlebury rooters were becoming greatly peeved at the attitude of the Vermonters. The Blue and White adherents greatly outnumbered the Burlington spectators, and had the game continued, it would have probably resulted in at least a technical victory for the Panthers.

Having got off to such an excellent start, the two teams resumed relations on the gridiron in 1897, and Vermont emerged victorious to the tune of 14 to 0. Another lapse of two years followed, and, in 1899, the Green and Gold again defeated the Panthers by the lop-sided score of 49 to 0.

In 1900 Middlebury won the first of a series of two games, and Vermont the second. Tradition has it that the Panther team was far superior, and should have won both games. But in those pre-Volstead days a victory was the clue to a celebration, and at this particular ceremony the Blue and White footballers seem to have been a bit too enthusiastic with the result that Vermont had a walk-over in the second game while Middlebury was recovering from a hang-over. Remember, this is taken from tradition!

In 1901 another two game series was played, and the situation was reversed. Vermont won the first game, and Middlebury the second. This time tradition tells us that in 1900 the Vermont gridmen had taken an oath not to shave until they had attached another Middlebury scalp to their belt. After their victorious combat, the Vermonters all shaved with the result that they couldn't keep their heads down when going through the line in the second game. School spirit was evidently school spirit in those days.

No more games seem to have been played until 1913 when, through the efforts of President Thomas, the two teams were brought together at Middlebury. Since then games have been played every year with the exception of 1917. Middlebury has won 9 games, Vermont has won 11, and four games resulted in tie scores.

The tabulated record of Middlebury-Vermont contests is printed elsewhere in this issue.

RENSSELAER WINS OVER MIDDLEBURY

stood Rensselaer 6; Middlebury 0 and there it stayed for the remainder of the game.

The engineers had one other scoring chance in the third period as a result of a fumbled punt on the Blue 27 yard line. A bad pass from center got away from Bliss and the engineers lost 20 yards, but a long pass, allowed when a Middlebury man interfered with the receiver, made up this loss. Goldwyn brought the ball to the 15 yard line with a smash at the line. The Panther defense then stiffened and broke up three rushing plays and took the ball on downs on the eight yard line.

Middlebury's lone scoring opportunity came in the very first period when a poor punt gave the Panther the ball on the Rensselaer 20 yard line. Things looked bright for a Middlebury score, but the Beckmen lost the chance by being penalized. Twenty yards were lost through penalties at this stage and although "Albie" Hoyle tore around end for a brilliant 20 yard jaunt ,the Blue team lost the ball on downs and never again had a chance to score.

Play was slow throughout most of the game as the backs found the muddy field very little to their liking. Neither team was able to make any sustained march and except for Bliss' long run and the following pass for a score, there were no thrills. Bliss was the star of the Rensselaer team while Hoyle showed up well for the Beckmen. The line-up:

Rensselaer (6)		Middlebury (0)
LE	Smith	Thrasher
LT	Teute	Perry
LG	Ablondi	Duffany
C	Howland	Nelson
RG	Montie	Brown
RT	Bauer	Huntington
RE	Pinto	Sorensen
QB	Crowley	Markowski
LHB	Bahr	Hardy
RHB	Goldwyn	Bakeman
FB	Nolan	Hartrey

Score by periods:

Rensselaer	0	6	0	0	—6

Touchdown: Bliss.

Substitutions—Rensselaer: States for Nolan, Diehl for Crowley, Bliss for Bahr, Disbrow for Smith, Cady for Bauer, Wetzel for Albondi, Budrecki for Cady, Barret for Monte, Crowley for Diehl, Diehl for Crowley.

and play if any of the regulars are hurt.

The Middlebury line is not as heavy as the Vermont forward wall and will have to play its best to keep the Catamount forwards in check. Vermont's backfield is not quite as fast as the Panther ball toters, but are a bit heavier and pack a mean punch in line plunging.

Middlebury has a few lateral pass plays that have worked well at times during the season. Vermont worked laterals with great success against Norwich. The Panther forward passing attack was potent against Boston University, but has not been worked very much since. Vermont has a highly touted aerial offense which may cause trouble.

Offensively and defensively there is not a whole lot to choose between the two elevens. Both have been beaten bad and often. More points have been scored against the Cats, but a few more or less mean but little. The Vermonters can be relied upon to put up a great battle.

Saturday's contest is of great importance to both teams. A win means the state championship. If Middlebury wins, the Beckmen will have captured the championship of the state for the second consecutive season. If Vermont is victorious, the Cats will have possession of the title for the first time since 1925. With the championship hanging in the balance, both teams will fight their hardest.

Middlebury did not run into any very serious injuries at Troy and no Vermont man was hurt very bad in the Norwich game. With both teams at full strength a hard fought battle can be looked for. Vermont's heavier team will be up against Middlebury's faster team and as the old saying goes, "when an immovable object is met by an irresistible force, something is bound to happen." Middlebury should win, but in order to do so, Captain Perry's men will have to play real football.

Middlebury: Thiele for Thrasher, Hinman for Sorensen, Corliss for Bakeman, Yeomans for Markowski, Foote for Corliss, Hoyle for Hartrey, Webster for Duffany.

Referee: Olney, Cornell. Umpire: Wittner, Union. Linesman: Benson, Villanova. Time of game: 15 minute quarters.

Rutland Railroad Co. Runs N. Y. Excursion

The Rutland railroad will run excursions to New York via Troy and the New York Central railroad Friday, November 14 and Saturday, November 15.

Passage may be obtained from all Rutland railroad stations at the regular one way fare for the round trip. Tickets to New York are good on all regular trains (except certain New York Central limited trains) on the above mentioned dates. In returning, the original starting point must be reached not later than midnight of November 24. The fare from Middlebury is $9.64.

SPECIALISTS ARE DEFORMING WORLD

Rev. Tertius Van Dyke Says That Jesus is the Standard for Man.

"Concentrated energy in one line of work deprives men of being human beings," said Rev. Tertius Van Dyke of Washington, Conn., at vespers Sunday, November 9.

He went on to say: "We live in an age of specialization, a division of labor age. There is a concentrated energy among men and a failure to accomplish anything except in the direction in which they are trained. The benefits derived are increased efficiency and a chance to recognize interdependence among men. There are serious dangers of specialization. Men who become experts in one line fail to become men. Consequently they fail to live and act in relationship with one another. Specialization deprives men of the ability to be human beings. When man chooses to exert his energy to one thing he cuts himself off from the activities and learns the technique of only one line of business.

"A reporter once attended a revival meeting. O nbeing asked, "Are you safe?" he replied, 'No, I am a reporter.' He was addressed as a man but he forgot he was anything but a reporter.

"We get a thrill of encouragement when we meet a real man. We feel his force, his sympathy, and his purpose. He does not have just theory but thinks an dtalks as a man. Seek first to be a human being.

"The churches are infested with ecclesiastical experts who boost the religion. The churches are empty because self-respecting people cannot waste their time over petty discussions and unimportant contentions caused by these theological specialists.

"Human beings will not be deformed or lopsided if the specialist remembers his chief business of being a man."

Special entertainment features will accompany many of the dances, and the climax will be reached at intermission when a surprise novelty will be presented. The committee feels that this attraction will add much to the general success of the affair.

An attractive cut has been prepared by John Rulison for the programs. An engraving company has been engaged to make the cut, and print the programs on a special parchment form.

Since leaving the hospital, he has been able to work a few hours each day in his office, but his physicians advise a complete rest. Accordingly he is spending the month of November and possibly the first week or two of December, in Bermuda, where it is expected the warm climate will enable him to regain complete health.
